

The origin of the Estate dates back to 1648 through the donation by the Emperor of Austria Ferdinand III of 300 highly fertile fields to the military officer Locatello Locatelli, the Angoris Estate has been owned by the Locatelli family since 1968.

The family has progressively expanded the estate through the purchase of new land and continues to consolidate year after year its new image as a producer geared to superior quality wine-making that pursues with pride and dedication an ambitious goal: achieving the highest quality that the territory can express.
