

The Collavini story began in 1896 at Rivignano. Founder Eugenio Collavini supplied wine to the noble families of Udine and to wine shops.

The baton then passed to Giovanni, who worked through two World Wars.

It was Giovanni's son Manlio one of the first to take Friulian wines abroad and the first to believe in Pinot Grigio fermented off the skins, as long ago as 1969, and in 1971, he created Il Grigio, a trend-setting sparkling wine, which was later joined by Ribolla Gialla Brut.

Today, Collavini is a family-owned limited company managed by Manlio and his sons Giovanni, Luigi and Eugenio.

The Collavini vineyard philosophy is firmly based on the winemaker's passion, insights, experience and professional touch.
